HANDS-ON WORKSHOPS

Electronic Books: Tools for Struggling Readers

Shar Burgoyne, Assistive Technology Resources Specialist/Trainer, OTAP

E-text is currently considered a “best practice” to provide access to instructional materials for students with disabilities, including learning disabilities. It allows words to be made larger, change colors, talk, and be made into other formats. This class will look at the many ways to obtain e-books and explore some of the alternative formats. Each participant will leave with an updated resource CD. Register one week in advance of the workshop. Class will be cancelled if less than 10 people pre-register. 9:00-3:00, $45 includes lunch.
